INVITATION

People came to these surroundings centuries ago to be healed by gods. In fact, what healed them was their beliefs and someone who showed them their own beliefs. In a mood of bewitchedness and trance, people had experienced hope, confidence and integration, and had returned home much improved than how they had arrived and had emitted the inspiration they had gained to their environment. The magician of the primitive society has become the healer; but the procedure has not changed too much: To combine the concrete Nature with the abstract Psyche and to create a harmony between them. Now we use the word cohesion for this process. We started out with this theme for the meeting of this year, and wished to touch not only to the cohesion in the psyche of an individual, but to the cohesion in the society and even among the societies.

Another important feature of this year is the fact that a federation which gathers the trainers in Europe together, and a training organization which is a member of that federation will carry out an overlapping meeting in cooperation.

Let's come together in this sacred place where the basis of transformation of the magician of primitive people to the modern psychotherapist has been founded as the successors of the magician. We wish that our work will breath into us the inspiration of cohesion and each of us will begin to emit this inspiration to our environments.

Emre Kapkın

Congress Co-President
